UM WILL OFFER 137 SUMMER
COURSES FOR EDUCATORS

MISSOULA--

The School of Education at the University of Montana will offer 137 courses and 22 seminars, workshops and other special programs this summer for teachers, school administrators and others interested in education.

The schedule includes courses for persons seeking teaching endorsements and graduate degrees.

A one-week pre-session, June 9 through 13, will be followed by two four-week sessions, June 16-July 11 and July 14-Aug. 8, and an eight-week session, June 14-Aug. 8.

Joining UM faculty members on the summer education staff will be school administrators and specialists from Montana and other states, including David Smith, former dean of education at UM and now at the University of Florida in the same capacity.

Other visitors include Richard A. Gorton, professor of administrative leadership, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee; Allan Fraizer, library supervisor, Oregon City, Ore.; Geral and Glenelle Halpin, professors of education, Auburn State College, Auburn, Ala.; Gordon Parsons, Office of Overseas Schools, U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C.; and Patricia Polignano, consultant, Montgomery County, Md., public schools.

Pre-session courses will be given in business and office administration, science education, and health and physical education. The fee for pre-session courses is $25 per credit for both resident and non-resident students. Registration is handled by the UM Center for Continuing Education, Main Hall 125, 243-2900.

During the eight weeks following pre-session, short courses lasting from a few days to two weeks will deal with such subjects as school library media programs, programs for gifted students, audio-visual equipment maintenance, stress in the educational arena, and collective negotiations in the 1980s.

Summer session bulletins may be obtained by visiting, writing or telephoning the Summer Programs Office, Main hall 125, University of Montana, Missoula 59812, 243-2900. The bulletin contains all necessary forms.

Former UM students should call the Office of Admissions, 243-6266, for information about re-application.
